Verses 1-3

1. Ev-ery heart has a sto - ry, a rhy - thm, a beat. If your heart
2. stones in the road there'll be stones in your shoes. There are peo-
3. Li - ving with love and a great at - ti-tude;

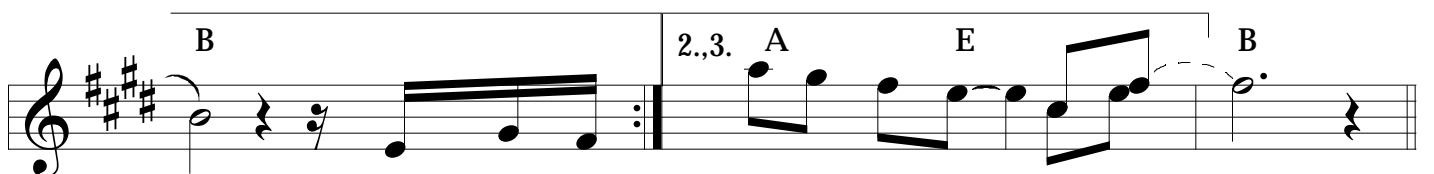

— has a love, — that makes — it com - plete. And ple whose jour - neys are not — what they'd choose. And gi - ving your - self, — what you say, — what you do;

what makes us dif - ferent makes — us the same: — you don't know why the stran - ger tra - vels a - lone: — does know - ing that some - times it's hard — to be free. —

ev - ery heart has a name. — Ev-ery heart has a name. —
he have a heart of stone? — Does
Some-times it's hard just to be.

— 2. When there are
he have a heart of stone? —
Some - times it's hard just to be.

Every heart has a story, a rhythm, a beat.
If your heart has a love, that makes it complete.
And what makes us different makes us the same:
Every heart has a name. Every heart has a name.

When there are stones in the road there'll be stones in your shoes.
There are people whose journeys are not what they'd choose.
And you don't know why the stranger travels alone:
Does he have a heart of stone? Does he have a heart of stone?

CHORUS: Yeish l'avot, v'yeish l'avot;
Yeish avanim, v'yeish avanim.
Yeish l'avot, sheheim avanim;
V'yeish avanim, sheheim l'avot.

Living with love and a great attitude;
Giving yourself, what you say, what you do;
Knowing that sometimes it's hard to be free.
Sometimes it's hard just to be. Sometimes it's hard just to be.

CHORUS

When the pain in your soul becomes too much to bear
And your life becomes hardened, you're going nowhere,
I understand that you live in the dark,
But we can create all we need from the start.
We can work it together, flames from the spark.
I will give you my heart. I will give you my heart.

Listen to my heart . . . can you hear it beating?
Put your hand on my heart, right there . . . right there.

CHORUS

*There are hearts and there are hearts.
There are stones and there are stones.
There are hearts that are made of stone
And there are stones that have a heart.*
